Becker Defense Suffers Blow When Police Lieutenant Testifies.

New York, Oct. 22.—The worst blow sustained by the defense in the Becker trial was the testimony of their own witness, Police Lieutenant Ernest L. D. Von Diezelski, who was in charge of the desk in the West 47th street station house on the night of the murder. The lieutenant swore that Lieutenant Becker did not enter the station house until 4:25 a. m. Frederick H. Hawley had testified on Saturday that after meeting Becker at 3:30 a. m. at the Times building they went directly to the station house. Von Diezelski's testimony was a direct contradiction of Hawley and it left unaccounted for Becker's movements for one hour and 53 minutes.

Several patrolmen testified that the Rosenthal raid was honestly made; that Becker had hardly been out of their sight while the raid was on; that Becker didn't say to Rosenthal what Mrs. Rosenthal said he said, and that Becker, after refusing to step aside with Mrs. Rosenthal for a private talk, ordered them to arrest her nephew as one of the men described in the warrants.

MADE THE ROPE THAT STRANGLED GITEAU.

Baltimore, Oct. 22.—The man who for half a century made the ropes which brought to their end the lives of many criminals, is dead. He was William H. Meyers, 76 years old. He made the noose which strangled Giteau, who murdered President Garfield. He also made the rope with which the Mollie McGuire was hanged at Pottsville and Mauch Chunk, Pa., in 1878.

Without Ring or Word "Obey."

New York, Oct. 22.—Without ring, without the word "obey," without any reference to affection for each other, Miss Ida Matzner of this city and Louis Schwartz, a young Minneapolis lawyer, were married this afternoon at the marriage room of the Ethical Culture society. Miss Matzner is an artist. Mr. Schwartz is a Columbia law school graduate in the late twenties. It is the belief of the society that woman is equal in every way to man.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.—Darke county was looted out of $335,480.59 by county officials and contractors during the five years beginning in August, 1907, according to the reports of State Examiner John A. Bliss and Engineer L. B. Harvey to State Auditor Fullington.

Findings were returned against ex-County Commissioners N. D. Sippel, William H. Townsend and T. L. Ewiler, Commission's Clerk E. K. Lott and R. L. Turner, janitor of courthouse. All of these men are under indictment.

DIAZ HAS CITY UNDER CONTROL

All Mexico His If He Follows Up Advantages Gained.

STRIKES BLOW AT VERA CRUZ

City of Mexico, the Military and Even States Ready to Flop to Him If He Displays Qualities of Leadership. Madero May Be Ousted Without Serious Hostilities—Situation in the Southern Republic.

Washington, Oct. 22.—If General Felix Diaz has the strength and the genius to follow up the advantage he has already gained from the blow struck at Vera Cruz, all Mexico is his. This is the conclusion reached here after official dispatches had been received from all points within the zone of the insurrection being led by the nephew of the exiled former president.

Dispatches to the state department from Mexico City indicate that the capital is ready to flop to the new leader the moment he shows signs of increased strength. Reports from other points in Mexico indicate that it rests only with Diaz himself as to when he shall receive the avowed support of individuals, the military, cities and states.

The citizens of Tampico are reported to be waiting for Diaz to send forces to come and take the city in his name. Diaz sympathizers have captured a government gunboat, the Progresso, at Puerto Mexico, and the taking of the town is expected at any moment.

In Vera Cruz absolute order prevails. General Diaz has the city absolutely under his control. The state department, through its representative in Mexico, is continuing its efforts toward assuring the safety of American lives and property in Mexico in the event of the situation taking a serious turn for the worse. The present indications are that General Diaz is likely to succeed in ousting Madero without serious hostilities.

Diaz's troops, camped just beyond the limits of Vera Cruz, are splendidly equipped with new model Mauser rifles and plenty of ammunition. He also has a battery of field guns and three machine guns.

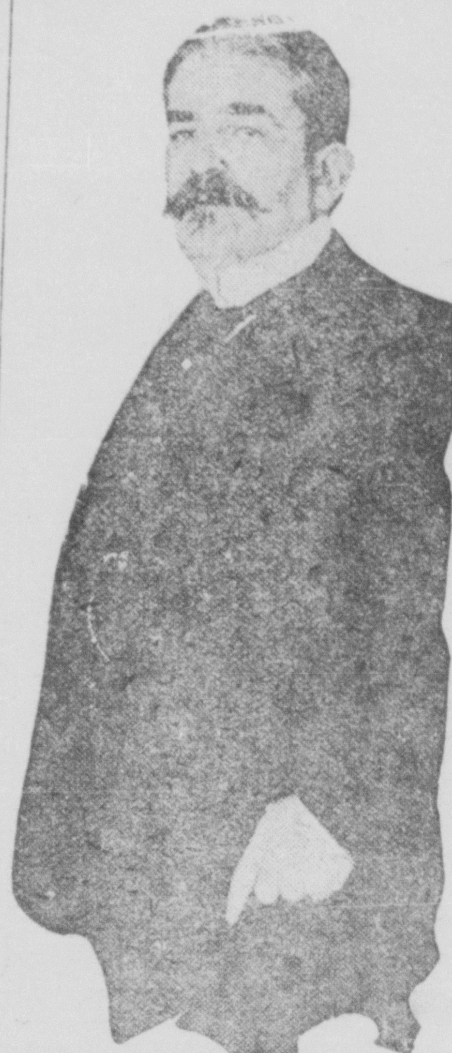

No federal troops are reported within 30 miles and they are certainly not seeking a fight. No word was received at Vera Cruz from Mexico City, although Diaz, in control of the telegraph, has not closed the line.

BALKAN CAPITALS CLAIM VICTORY

Turks Said to Be Falling Back on Adrianople In Confusion.

London, Oct. 22.—The capitals of the allied Balkan states are claiming victories for their troops over Turkey. From the field headquarters of the Bulgarians comes word that the Turks are falling back to Adrianople in confusion, burning villages and massacring peasants as they flee.

The Greek fleet, says Athens, has blockaded the island of Lemnos, and that Turkish island is being occupied by Greek troops.

The Bulgarians are said to have captured Kirk-Killesseh after days of severe fighting around that town. The Serb-Bulgarian army claims to have taken 20,000 prisoners, three months' food supplies and ammunition for a whole army corps. Kirk-Killesseh is but 32 miles from Adrianople, and a report says that the victorious invaders pressed on, stormed the northern forts of Adrianople and cut the communication between that city and the outside world.

The Servians are said to have captured Nevavars, in the Snajka of Novibazar, where was the hottest sort of fighting.

The Servians have now advanced to within 75 miles of Uskub, their objective point, and are said to have captured Podujevo on their way.

Political Tension Arises In Cuba

Presidential Campaign Marked By Threats of Violence.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Dispatches to the state department indicate that the political tension in Cuba as a result of the approaching elections is rapidly increasing.

The legation at Havana reported that the resignations of General Montegudo, commander-in-chief of the army, and the ministers of justice, public instruction and the interior have been presented to President Gomez. Only the resignation of the minister of the interior has been accepted.

The bitterness of the campaign being waged on behalf of Vice President Zayas, the Liberal candidate, and General Menocal, the Conservative candidate, is said to be bringing about a situation which is dangerous to the peace of Cuba. The accusations of undue partiality directed against President Gomez by General Menocal and his supporters have resulted in counter accusations, accompanied by threats of a resort to violence on both sides.

Brooks Sights Another Comet.

Geneva, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Dr. William R. Brooks, director of Smith observatory and professor of astronomy at Hobart college, discovered a comet in the eastern sky. The comet is in constellation Sextans, with moderate motion eastward, and visible through small telescopes. This is the twenty-seventh comet found by Professor Brooks.

Foreigner Riddled With Bullets.

Rube Marquard, Visiting Jacky And Mascot Goat of Utah

WHEN the vanguard of the Atlantic fleet arrived at New York for the review in the Hudson river the sailors took a day off to attend the exhibition game between the Giants and the Highlanders as a curtain raiser to the world's series. The camera man induced Rube Marquard, the pitcher with the long string of victories, and a sailor from the Utah, with the ship mascot, to pose. The result is herewith shown. The Jackies had the time of their lives cheering the National league pennant winners. Every ship in the navy has a mascot. In that respect our war vessels are like our baseball teams. The bluejacket in the picture assured Rube that the Utah's goat would bring him good luck in the contests with the Boston Red Sox, and the goat made no denial.

ANTICIPATED PARKER'S DEFEAT

Testimony Introduced Tending to Show That Roosevelt Sought Aid of Senator Penrose in His Pre-Convention Campaign—Perkins Attacks Story That He Offered to Underwrite Roosevelt's Campaign.

Washington, Oct. 22.—These were the principal disclosures at the session of the Clapp investigating committee:

Thomas F. Ryan contributed $450,000 to Judge Parker's 1904 campaign, putting up $350,000 of this when he knew Parker was beaten and merely for the purpose of holding the Democratic organization intact.

George W. Perkins contributed $122,000 to Colonel Roosevelt's 1912 pre-convention campaign, swelling the total of that fund, as disclosed before the committee, to $835,000.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania was invited by one of the leading Roosevelt managers to cast his lot with the colonel, according to testimony introduced, and when he refused war was declared on him by the Roosevelt forces in the state of Pennsylvania.

John H. Nugent of Philadelphia, a local politician, and Robert Haight, a Philadelphia publisher, were the witnesses who testified in regard to the effort to entice Senator Penrose into the Roosevelt ranks.

In reply to questions concerning the pre-convention campaign of 1912, Mr. Ryan said that he had contributed between $75,000 and $80,000 to Governor Harmon's campaign and more than $30,000 to Representative Underwood's.

Mr. Perkins denounced as an "unmitigated falsehood" the charge that he had underwritten the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign this year in the sum of $3,000,000. He testified that his total contributions were $122,500.

Federal Transport Among Missing

Carries Over 700 American Marines and a Commission.

Washington, Oct. 22.—So completely has the transport Prairie, with 750 marines and a commission consisting of Brigadier General Frank McIntyre and W. T. S. Doyle, lost itself that Beekman Winthrop, acting secretary of the navy, sent several urgent cablegrams to various stations in Santo Domingo and Haiti, in an effort to locate the vessel. Naval officials are worried regarding the transport. Mr. Winthrop said he thought it was cruising along the north shore and was probably many miles from the nearest cable station. He said not a word had been received from her commander, A. H. Scales, for more than two weeks.

A GOLDEN DEED.

"I guess I'm some good after all".

Pitiful little sentence, the last words of the crippled newsie, Billy Rugh!

The simple words have in them the heart break of the tragedy that a withered leg had made of a boy's hopes. Despairing of giving to the world his quota of usefulness, weighted by his shrunken body and constant suffering, the Gary newsboy grasped the opportunity to give "a life for a life". Gladly he offered to sacrifice his leg for the operation of skin grafting to which Ethel Smith owes her recovery. Hearing of the girl's terrible burns and critical condition, hopeless without the securing of a large amount of cuticle to graft on the burned body, he overrode all physicians' objections. When told that the amputation of his leg might prove fatal, he said, "What's the odds if it saves her life."

Ethel Smith is recovering and yesterday Billy Rugh was buried.

It was a funeral such as would never have been dreamed of by Billy in his wildest dreams.

All of Gary turned from its busy whirl to pay tearful tribute in a memorial service.

The big steel mills closed, business houses were draped in black, bands played mournful music and the church was piled with flowers, costing more money than Billie could have made in many years of paper selling.

A special train, bearing prominent citizens of Gary and all the city's newsboys, carried the body to rest beside his mother in the graveyard at Orion, Ill.

So was the entire calloused world touched by a bit of heroism which will be indelibly recorded in the Book of Golden Deeds.

Obscure and unknown a few months ago the name of Billie Rugh is now spoken with reverence and sobs from seaboard to seaboard.

The newsboy has given to the world an object lesson of such beautiful unselfishness that it halts the onrush of even Chicago.

Brave little crippled newsie! Even as he crosses the bar, crying as a peon of triumph, "I guess I'm some good after all!"

His farewell cry takes out the sting from the grief of the girl whose life he saved. It stirs in the most hardened soul admiration for the valiant spirit which, above all else, wanted to be of real use in the world, and cheerfully yielded life himself in the effort.

Postponed Marriage Is the Great Evil of Modern Life

Unions Late In Life Are Inexcusable

By Dr. CHARLES W. ELIOT,
President Emeritus of
Harvard University

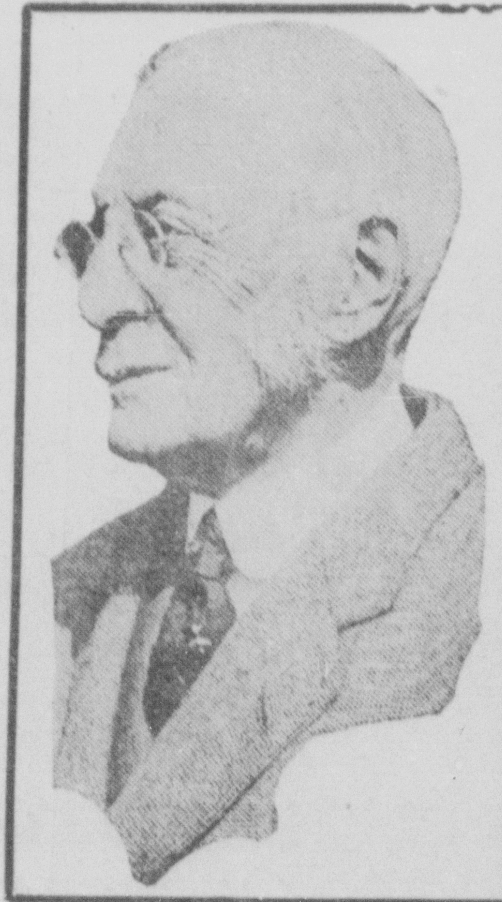

MARRY early. Look forward to marriage, to serving your country and then to being a grandfather.

Look ahead to marriage, and, I should almost say, THE SOONER THE BETTER. Late marriage is an evil, and in the life of the educated man it has become far more serious than in the life of the laboring man.

POSTPONED MARRIAGE IS THE GREAT EVIL OF MODERN LIFE. IT IS NOT A VALID EXCUSE TO SAY THAT YOU WISH TO GIVE THE GIRL YOU ARE TO MARRY AS MUCH LUXURY AS SHE HAD IN THE HOME OF HER PARENTS. IF THE GIRL HAS BEEN BROUGHT UP IN TOO MUCH LUXURY THE SOONER SHE IS GIVEN A CHANCE TO LIVE DIFFERENTLY THE BETTER.

You should look forward to being a father; then when you are thirty or forty years old you should look forward to SERVING YOUR COUNTRY. That is the age in which you should make yourself felt in the community.

The time will come when you will be fifty or sixty years of age. Then it will be time for you to be a grandfather. That is a thing to look forward to, and you had better BEGIN TO LOOK FORWARD TO IT NOW. Postponed marriage has the great disadvantage that a man cannot begin to have grandchildren until he is too old to enjoy them.

Poetry For Today

THE HOME HILLS.

Over the hills a white road calls,
Luring the feet away;
Calling from dawn till twilight falls,
Luring through night and day;
Hearts in the vale its call obey,
And go on an endless quest,
But wiser the hearts who never stray—
The old home hills are best!

Regions there are with summer queen,
Regal throughout the year,
Crowned with a bloom forever green,
And mountains blue and sheer;
There come the pilgrims from far and near
Seeking a land gods blessed,
But homeward again their gray barks steer—
The old home hills are best!

Every the paths await the feet
Eager for scenes unknown,
Fair and faint are their windings fleet,
Running from zone to zone;
But when they have failed and weary grown
Backward they turn to rest
Where hearts find peace and love, its own—
The old home hills are best!

BITTER DISAPPOINTMENTS

Girls Run Away Are Located Here

Three young girls of Clarksburg, Misses Ursula Morris, Mary Macey and Lulu Hancher, aged about 16 or 17, took it into their heads Saturday that Clarksburg was too confining for them and ran away. Whether unrequited love or too much dishwashing and chores at home caused the spurt, is not known, but at any rate they told their parents they were going after a cow and disappeared. It was learned they walked to Atlanta, where they boarded a train for Washington C. H., "never to return." In Washington C. H. they took in four or five picture shows and sought out a place for retirement for the night, when their exchequer ran out.

Their mothers got track of them and being much worried, finally got a man with an automobile, late Saturday night, to go to Washington C. H. for them. He found the girls had gone to bed but routed them out and made them go home with him. Sunday the girls never showed their faces out of doors; being in seclusion, but in their hearts they were glad to get home, as they should have been. —Chillicothe Gazette.

Tree Laden With Fragrant Blossoms

A bunch of fully developed and wonderfully fragrant apple blossoms was left at The Herald office Monday morning, and the bunch was plucked from a tree on the Jacob Smith farm north of town.

The tree in question is covered with sweet blossoms, and is only one of a great many trees scattered about the county, where the buds have been coaxed into full development by the warm October sun.

Some have raised the question of whether or not the trees that bloom this fall will put forth their blossoms again next spring, and a watch will be kept on the trees to see if they will bloom in the spring.

A GOLDEN DEED.

"I guess I'm some good after all".
Pitiful little sentence, the last words of the crippled newsie, Billy Rugh!

The simple words have in them the heart break of the tragedy that a withered leg had made of a boy's hopes. Despairing of giving to the world his quota of usefulness, weighted by his shrunken body and constant suffering, the Gary newsboy grasped the opportunity to give "a life for a life". Gladly he offered to sacrifice his leg for the operation of skin grafting to which Ethel Smith owes her recovery. Hearing of the girl's terrible burns and critical condition, hopeless without the securing of a large amount of cuticle to graft on the burned body, he overrode all physicians' objections. When told that the amputation of his leg might prove fatal, he said, "What's the odds if it saves her life."

Ethel Smith is recovering and yesterday Billy Rugh was buried.

It was a funeral such as would never have been dreamed of by Billy in his wildest dreams.

All of Gary turned from its busy whirl to pay fearful tribute in a memorial service.

The big steel mills closed, business houses were draped in black, bands played mournful music and the church was piled with flowers, costing more money than Billie could have made in many years of paper selling.

A special train, bearing prominent citizens of Gary and all the city's newsboys, carried the body to rest beside his mother in the graveyard at Orion, Ill.

So was the entire calloused world touched by a bit of heroism which will be indelibly recorded in the Book of Golden Deeds.

Obscure and unknown a few months ago the name of Billie Rugh is now spoken with reverence and sobs from sea-board to seaboard.

The newsboy has given to the world an object lesson of such beautiful unselfishness that it halts the onrush of even Chicago.

His farewell cry takes out the sting from the grief of the girl whose life he saved. It stirs in the most hardened soul admiration for the valiant spirit which, above all else, wanted to be of real use in the world, and cheerfully yielded life himself in the effort.

Poetry For Today

THE HOME HILLS.

Over the hills a white road calls,
Luring the feet away;
Calling from dawn till twilight falls,
Luring through night and day;
Hearts in the vale its call obey,
And go on an endless quest,
But wiser the hearts who never stray—
The old home hills are best!

Regions there are with summer queen,
Regal throughout the year,
Crowned with a bloom forever green,
And mountains blue and sheer;
There come the pilgrims from far and near
Seeking a land gods blessed,
But homeward again their gray barks steer—
The old home hills are best!

Every the paths await the feet
Eager for scenes unknown,
Fair and faint are their windings fleet,
Running from zone to zone;
But when they have failed and weary grown
Backward they turn to rest
Where hearts find peace and love, its own—
The old home hills are best!

Girls Run Away Are Located Here

Three young girls of Clarksburg, Misses Ursula Morris, Mary Macey and Lula Hancher, aged about 16 or 17, took it into their heads Saturday that Clarksburg was too confining for them and ran away. Whether unrequited love or too much dishwashing and chores at home caused the spurt, is not known, but at any rate they told their parents they were going after a cow and disappeared. It was learned they walked to Atlanta, where they boarded a train for Washington C. H., "never to return." In Washington C. H. they took in four or five picture shows and sought out a place for retirement for the night, when their exchequer ran out.

Their mothers got track of them and being much worried, finally got a man with an automobile, late Saturday night, to go to Washington C. H. for them. He found the girls had gone to bed but routed them out and made them go home with him. Sunday the girls never showed their faces out of doors, being in seclusion, but in their hearts they were glad to get home, as they should have been. —Chillicothe Gazette.

Tree Laden With Fragrant Blossoms

A bunch of fully developed and wonderfully fragrant apple blossoms was left at The Herald office Monday morning, and the bunch was plucked from a tree on the Jacob Smith farm north of town.

The tree in question is covered with sweet blossoms, and is only one of a great many trees scattered about the county, where the buds have been coaxed into full development by the warm October sun.

Some have raised the question of whether or not the trees that bloom this fall will put forth their blossoms again next spring, and a watch will be kept on the trees to see if they will bloom in the spring.

Postponed Marriage Is the Great Evil of Modern Life

Unions Late In Life Are Inexcusable

By Dr. CHARLES W. ELIOT,
President Emeritus of
Harvard University

MARRY early. Look forward to marriage, to serving your country and then to being a grandfather.

Look ahead to marriage, and, I should almost say, THE SOONER THE BETTER. Late marriage is an evil, and in the life of the educated man it has become far more serious than in the life of the laboring man.

POSTPONED MARRIAGE IS THE GREAT EVIL OF MODERN LIFE. IT IS NOT A VALID EXCUSE TO SAY THAT YOU WISH TO GIVE THE GIRL YOU ARE TO MARRY AS MUCH LUXURY AS SHE HAD IN THE HOME OF HER PARENTS. IF THE GIRL HAS BEEN BROUGHT UP IN TOO MUCH LUXURY THE SOONER SHE IS GIVEN A CHANCE TO LIVE DIFFERENTLY THE BETTER.

You should look forward to being a father; then when you are thirty or forty years old you should look forward to SERVING YOUR COUNTRY. That is the age in which you should make yourself felt in the community.

The time will come when you will be fifty or sixty years of age. Then it will be time for you to be a grandfather. That is a thing to look forward to, and you had better BEGIN TO LOOK FORWARD TO IT NOW. Postponed marriage has the great disadvantage that a man cannot begin to have grandchildren until he is too old to enjoy them.

A special session of the city solons was held Monday night for the purpose of pushing the work on the Yeoman street sewer, where complaint has been made of unwarranted delay and the need of immediate attention to furnish relief to property owners along Yeoman street.

Chapman was absent. President Light stated the reason for the call. Rothrock spoke of some $140 in the sewer fund, and advocated borrowing of $100 or $200 more to complete the Yeoman street sewer just as soon as the work could be done. He moved that the solicitor prepare a resolution for building the sewer. The motion carried and the resolution was drawn.

While the Solicitor was drawing the resolution, Rothrock asked Service Director Mark about the new hydrants ordered in some time ago, saying that complaint had been made that the hydrants had not been installed, and there was a demand for city water. The Service Director stated that no contract for the hydrants had been made. Durant made brief mention of a conversation with Supt. Fisher, of the Washington Water Company.

The resolution to construct the sewer was placed on its first reading and called for a ten-inch sewer. Durant objected to a sewer over six inches, and McLean desired to know from whence the money was coming with which to build it. Rothrock volunteered the information that as the $2,000 bond issue for sewer purposes would be obtainable, that enough could be borrowed to build the sewer, the estimated cost of which was $300 and the amount to be deducted from the bond issue. The resolution was eventually passed by unanimous vote.

Rothrock then moved that the solicitor prepare an ordinance to borrow $200 with which to build the sewer. Auditor Pine demanded to know what would be done for money with which to make repairs if the small surplus in the sewer fund was used up on the Yeoman street sewer. Rothrock changed his motion to one calling for the borrowing of $300. Rothrock's motion carried and Solicitor Rankin withdrew to prepare the resolution.

During the Solicitor's absence the councilmen informally discussed the proposal of new lights for the city, some believing that incandescents for the outskirts would be even better than the arcs, and the plan for cluster lights in the business district apparently met with great favor, and this will probably come up when the new question of lights is considered.

Cox also took occasion to bring up the uncollected tax question, saying that he for one desired the special improvement assessments collected, and that $20,000 had been dropped as uncollectable and that at the present time the action would be repeated unless something was done. Rothrock suggested suit against the County Treasurer to compel collection of the special assessments.

Cox then called attention to complaint about certain improvements, which were alleged to be not up to the specifications. He suggested repairs. He also further suggested that after repairs were made the assessments be collected. Green street was cited as a horrible example of incompetent work of contractors or engineer, or somebody who had to do with the improvement. The gutters on Green street were alleged to be higher than the street.

It was brought out that $20,000 in special assessments was due and unpaid. Rothrock thought the Solicitor was being paid to look after such matters.

The new sidewalks on South Main street came in for condemnation. President Light calling attention to cup-shaped crossings that would hold water, and the fact that the edges of the sidewalk were not properly protected to prevent breaking or wasting away.

Service Director Mark said the job had not been accepted. When further discussed attention was called to the curbstone being some eight inches lower than the sidewalk, and the rough unfinished edge of the sidewalk being left exposed, and the very unsatisfactory drain under certain crossings along the Slagle Lumber yards. The condition of the sidewalk along the Ballard-Ford Hardware Company's building was also criticised.

After this discussion and the return of Solicitor Rankin with the resolution which he had drawn up, and which called for the issuance of certificates of indebtedness in the sum of $300, the resolution was passed under suspension, and adjournment taken.

The marriage comes as a surprise to many Washington friends who are extending best wishes to Mr. Smalley and his bride.

Gave Local Girl Intoxicating Drink

William B. Walker, charged with furnishing intoxicating liquor to a minor, was released on bond of $200 in the Probate court yesterday morning and the hearing of his case was set for October 29.

Walker is alleged to have taken 17-year-old Katie Pierson, of Washington C. H., automobile riding in this city, October 5, and during that time to have given her intoxicating liquor. The pair were arrested after the automobile had struck a street car. The case was turned over to the juvenile court because the girl gave her age as 16 years. When it was proved last week by the girl's mother that she was 17 years old, the case was transferred to the probate court and Walker rearrested on a new affidavit.—Springfield Sun.

Begged Food Made Threats

William Doyle, aged about 43 years, was arrested by Chief McCoy Monday near the noon hour after a hot chase of a half mile or more.

Doyle appeared in the southern part of the city and approaching a number of residences begged for food and when refused frightened the women almost into hysterics by calmly announcing that he was in the habit of killing those who refused to give him something to eat.

It was thought the man was demented, and a call for the police was made. When he saw Chief McCoy coming he turned and ran. He was "jugged" and his hearing is to occur later.

Citizens Can Burn Leaves

The Board of Health has lifted the ban on the burning of leaves and has issued the edict that leaves may be burned from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. All fires must be out by 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

A great many have been burning the leaves at all hours in the day and some in the evening, but the smoke nuisance has been the cause of much complaint.

A Little More Help And The Creamery Is Assured

More Persons Join Co-operative
Movement for Modern Butter
Making Plant for Washington
and Fayette County, and Few Days More Will Tell the Story.

With a little assistance from residents of this city, the new Butter factory or Creamery, planned for this community, will be realized, and those interested in the enterprise will be profiting by the benefits to be derived from the Creamery, and the farmers who have been receiving a fair price for their dairy products, will be receiving top prices and sharing in the profits of the institution. Upward of fifty persons have been added to the list of investors, and within a short time it is believed that everything will be ready for organization and early work on the structure, so that some time within the next few months, if a few citizens put their shoulder to the wheel the plant will be in actual operation, turning out several hundred pounds of butter each day.

Those who have investigated the creamery business and are familiar with local conditions, are becoming more and more enthusiastic the further they go into the subject.

Under the co-operative plan, such as the one proposed for the Washington creamery, the investors reap all benefits possible, while under other plans the farmer loses several cents per pound on all butter fat sold.

Up in Jeffersonville the business men urged that the creamery be located there, and it is said nearly all business men agreed to become members of the concern. However in this city the same indifference which has lost the city so much, has been shown by some, while others are greatly pleased with the enterprise as proposed, and are anxious to secure it.

Mr. R. H. Sheldon, who is back of the enterprise, expects to know within the next few days what will be done, and is confident that success will crown the efforts of those interested in securing the creamery.

To the Public

Within the last few days I have repeatedly heard that certain interested parties are carefully spreading a report to the effect that I have withdrawn from the race for the office of Judge of the Probate Court.

I wish to state most emphatically that this report is absolutely false and to urge that no one place any credence therein. I will further state that I am in this race to win, and will most assuredly keep up the fight until the last ballot is counted on November 5.

Begged Food Made Threats

William Doyle, aged about 43 years, was arrested by Chief McCoy Monday near the noon hour after a hot chase of a half mile or more.
Doyle appeared in the southern part of the city and approaching a number of residences begged for food and when refused frightened the women almost into hysterics by calmly announcing that he was in the habit of killing those who refused to give him something to eat.

It was thought the man was demented, and a call for the police was made. When he saw Chief McCoy coming he turned and ran. He was
"jugged" and his hearing is to occur later.

Citizens Can Burn Leaves

The Board of Health has lifted the ban on the burning of leaves and has issued the edict that leaves may be burned from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. All fires must be out by 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

A great many have been burning the leaves at all hours in the day and some in the evening, but the smoke nuisance has been the cause of much complaint.

A Little More Help And The Creamery Is Assured

More Persons Join Co-operative
Movement for Modern Butter
Making Plant for Washington
and Fayette County, and Few Days More Will Tell the Story.

With a little assistance from residents of this city, the new Butter factory or Creamery, planned for this community, will be realized, and those interested in the enterprise will be profiting by the benefits to be derived from the Creamery, and the farmers who have been receiving a fair price for their dairy products, will be receiving top prices and sharing in the profits of the institution.

Upward of fifty persons have been added to the list of investors, and within a short time it is believed that everything will be ready for organization and early work on the structure, so that some time within the next few months, if a few citizens put their shoulder to the wheel
the plant will be in actual operation, turning out several hundred pounds of butter each day.

Those who have investigated the creamery business and are familiar with local conditions, are becoming more and more enthusiastic the further they go into the subject.

Under the co-operative plan, such as the one proposed for the Washington creamery, the investors reap all benefits possible, while under other plans the farmer loses several cents per pound on all butter fat sold.

Up in Jeffersonville the business men urged that the creamery be located there, and it is said nearly all business men agreed to become members of the concern. However in this city the same indifference which has lost the city so much, has been shown by some, while others are greatly pleased with the enterprise as proposed, and are anxious to secure it.

Mr. R. H. Sheldon, who is back of the enterprise, expects to know within the next few days what will be done, and is confident that success will crown the efforts of those interested in securing the creamery.

that this report is absolutely false

IN SOCIETY

The wedding of Miss Margaret McClure, daughter of Mr. R. D. McClure and Dr. Howard L. Stitt, son of Mr. J. Y. Stitt, of Bloomingburg, was solemnized at eight o'clock last night at the home of the bride.

While a small affair, confined to fifty guests, representing the immediate families and close friends, it was a very beautiful wedding, marked by a profusion of flowers and an artistic arrangement in decoration. The gorgeous fall flower, the chrysanthemum, in pink and white, with quantities of greenery embellished the parlors and the ceremony was performed beneath an arch of overhanging green, studded with chrysanthemums. The base of the arch was sentinelled by white and gilt pedestals, surmounted by great bunches of white chrysanthemums.

Just before the appointed hour, Miss Edith Gardner, accompanied by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ercel Stitt, sang exquisitely two songs of the bride's own composition, "The Red, Red Rose" and "The Lane," while the sweet strains still vibrated their tribute to the musical talent of the bride, the young couple took their places for their nuptial vows.

They were accompanied by the bride's little cousin, Enid McClure, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McClure, who bore the rings in two tall white chrysanthemums. Miss Eva McClure held the bride's flowers during the ceremony.

Rev. William Irvin Campbell, of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. A. W. West, of the First Baptist church, performed an impressive double ring ceremony.

A striking brunette, regal in her bearing, the bride never looked more beautiful than in her bridal attire.

Her gown was an elaborate creation of white satin, draped in crepe chiffon trimmed in bands of broadened velvet and chantilly lace, the draperies caught with tiny wreaths of green and gold rose buds. On her dark hair was a gold Juliette cap and her slippers were white, with gold trimmings. At her throat was the bridegroom's gift, a diamond pendant and she carried an armful of bride's roses.

The tiny flower girl was a picture in a sheer white frock of embroidery and lace, with white sash and bows. Mrs. R. D. McClure received in a handsome gown of black silk grenadine over satin, with wide lace bands.

After congratulations the bride and groom led the way to the dining room, a bower of pink and green, with pink roses in luxuriant profusion.

The central decoration of the table with its battenberg lunch cloth, was a superb basket of pink roses, the handle tied with pink and white gauze bows. At the corners of the tables pink candles blazed in silver candlesticks, their bases encircled with roses.

The pink and white color scheme was prettily introduced in the collation served.

The supper hour was made merry by the young people in the dining room, Rev. Campbell finding the ring in the cake, Miss Edith Hamm the thimble, Miss Eva McClure the dime and Mrs. Frank Hays the collar button.

The bride divided the bouquet between her mother and the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. S. R. Morris. Her favors to attendants were silver powder pencils and a spoon to the little flower girl.

The wedding presents made an exceedingly handsome ensemble of silver, cut glass and bric-a-brac.

After an eastern trip of ten days, Dr. and Mrs. Stitt will occupy the McClure home on South Main street, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McClure going to their new home in Peebles.

The marriage is one to elicit congratulations from a wide circle of friends, both in social and musical realms.

The bride has contributed generously to the music loving world of Washington, being a natural born musician, endowed to the extent of genius. She is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and of the Indianapolis School of Music, and young as she is, the musical world is already giving recognition to the songs and other numbers which she has composed.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Miami university and the Cincinnati College of Medicine, and within his short term of practice in Washington, has already become well established. In his profession he is as talented as his bride and a bright attractive fellow, who has made friends as easily as did his charming bride when she came from Waverly to make this city her home.

Dr. and Mrs. Stitt will be at home to friends after December the first. The bride's going away gown was a dark grey tailored suit, with Persian silk waist, black beaver hat with white plumes.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McGuire, of Pittsburg; Dr. Eylar, of Rainesboro; Mrs. Geo. McClure, of Portsmouth; Mrs. Margaret Beekman, of Peebles; Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Columbus; Misses Clara Johnson and Louise Wolford, Mr. Carl Johnson, of Waverly; Dr. Erick Trachtman, of Cincinnati, and relatives from Bloomingburg, including Dr. Stitt's father, Mr. J. Y. Stitt and sister, Miss Ercel.

Miss Beulah Elliott entertained in honor of Miss Madonna Larrimer for dinner Sunday, the following guests, Misses Bessie and Hazel Andrews, Amy, Ethel and Mary Arnold, Anna and Nona Wolfe, Susan and Georgia Campbell, Ethel Miller, Ollie McCune and Zoe Sorrell.

Mrs. Lynn Smith gave an exceedingly pretty birthday party Saturday day afternoon for her two sons, Forrest, aged 7, and Eugene, aged 3.

The birthdays of the two boys are so close that the joint party was a happy idea and delightfully carried out for the pleasure of the young guests.

A pink and white color scheme was effectively used in decoration and after a number of outdoor games, ice cream, cake and candy was served.

The boys received a number of beautiful birthday gifts. Mrs. Smith was assisted by their grandmother, Mrs. Lena Backinstoe and aunt, Mrs. Hugh Smith.

The guests included Thelma and Kenneth Craig, Nellie Bernice Reeder, Thelma Davis, Margaret Ford, Mildred Hyer, Mary and Mildred Pummel, William Robey, Guy Underwood, Byron Horney, Donald DeWitt, Geoffrey Lambert, Waco Patton, Ansel Clyde Smith.

THE RETREAT

EVERY Friday afternoon there are some two score men aboard the five o'clock boat for Staten Island, bound on an unusual undertaking. They are men of many different stations and walks of life. All are strangers to each other, and they do not meet until the end of their journey. They are going away for sixty-two hours of spiritual stock taking. Each is desirous of learning just what he is making and what he can make out of his life; what moral opportunities he is neglecting entirely or developing too little. To do this they are going to a place of peace and quiet, the House of Retreats at Mount Marcellus, Fort Wadsworth, which was dedicated last June, and is the only retreat for laymen in America. The house is on the crest of the hill at the gate of New York and commands a wide view of sea and city.

Each weekend sees a different company. Except under unusual circumstances no man is permitted to enter the retreat more than once a year. Yet so deep is the impression that is made on the individual conscience that it is rare for a man to feel the need of a more frequent looking over spiritually. Except for fifteen minutes after the evening meal, when the ban is lifted, these men spend the time between six o'clock Friday afternoon and eight o'clock Monday morning without exchanging a word with each other. The rest of the time they battle silently with their difficulties, under the generalship of one skillful in such work, though obedient to the tactics of one greater than he, a famous fighter and a memorable commander, Ignatius Loyola.

Men of Varied Occupation.

Here are some of the occupations of the two score men who gathered at Mount Marcellus last week to meditate upon the condition of their souls: An ex-clergyman, a metal polisher, a fire chief, a plumber, a Wall street magnate, a postman, three newspaper men, a driver for a grocer's wagon, a book publisher, a department store clerk, a doctor, several merchants and several lawyers. All these men retired voluntarily from the world for a brief space in order to find out, during a week-end of prayer, of meditation and silence, how to confront it more manfully. It was no ordinary sermon that they heard now and again from the spiritual director. There are no heads nodding sleepily while he talks. Every one listens with strained attention. As one man said: "You seem to feel the thumbs of God at work on the clay of your soul."

Although retreats have been part of the church's work for centuries, it was only in 1882 that a definite plan was adopted so their benefits could be made available for laymen. In that year Father Henry of the Jesuit order established in Belgium the first House of Retreats for laymen. The movement spread to Spain, France, Portugal and South America. The second House of Retreats in England was opened last April, about eight miles from the center of London. The first retreat for laymen was established in America about three years ago at Fordham. Later, during the summer, it was at Kayser's Island, on the sound. The latter part of last year the Mount Marcellus property on Staten Island was acquired, and was opened September 8, 1911. It was dedicated as a permanent House of Retreats June 18, of this year.

No Doctrinal Instruction.

A retreat is not made up of preaching or doctrinal instruction. At Mount Marcellus Father Terence J. Shealy, who is in charge of the movement, gives frequent talks upon the various phases of the spiritual life. They are not doctrinal expositions, for any one who believes in the fundamentals of Christianity is welcomed. They apply largely to business ethics, the standard of honesty and justice being applied to every phase of daily work. They are earnest exhortations that tend to make a man recast his soul, to arouse his conscience, to make him look within himself and realize what he is doing with his life. Each of these is followed by a period of meditation. The men may retire to their rooms or they may wander about the grounds—there are twenty acres of giant trees and shady lawns—or they may sit in the library where there are many volumes waiting to help them still further along the road they have set out to travel.

The day begins early for those in this retreat. They rise at six o'clock. Meditation and a brief religious service precede breakfast, which is followed by meditation and reflection in common at nine a. m. At eleven the spiritual director gives one of his searching talks, then follows—in silence always—an examination of the conscience. After the midday meal there is another address from Father Shealy and another period of meditation. Only for the quarter of an hour after supper is any general conversation allowed.

Audit Books of Life.
"We apply our conscience to the common duties of the day," says Father Shealy—a fine, stalwart, earnest, sensitive, humorous man, an Irishman of the best type. "In the light of the law of conscience we examine our lives, our social relationships, our business dealings. We audit our books. We realize our obligations anew. As we can see our faces in the mirror our meditations and the spiritual exercises enable us to look into our souls. We study the science of right living.

Father Shealy.

"The rule of silence gives play to a new and tremendous activity of mind and heart busied with the basic relations of human life. The appeal is to the whole man, and its object is to give special strength as well as light for the upbuilding of the character. It is, in fact, the awakening of the mind to new meanings in human relationship; the making of a new beginning in the soul's journey to God under the stimulus of sympathetic direction.

"Conscience is becoming more and more divorced from professional and business responsibility. But life and the things of life are a trust of which each man must one day render an account of his stewardship."

Combat Social Unrest.

The primary purpose of the retreat is, of course, to mend and strengthen souls; but there is still another side upon which the spiritual director's exhortations touch with emphasis. The growth of social unrest and anti-religious social theories in the United States has been a source of much apprehension to the clergy. Socialism is growing rapidly, and the church is combating positively and actively the features of the Socialistic propaganda that are directed against doctrinal and moral teachings. As a result, part of the work of the Laymen's League for Retreats and Social Studies, under whose auspices the retreat at Mount Marcellus is conducted, has established regular courses of systematic study of social questions and modern apologetics. These are particularly a part of the School of Social Studies, at 140 Nassau street, New York, but the same questions are touched upon impressively during the retreats at each week end.

The subject of Socialism is dealt with exhaustively from the Catholic viewpoint and with especial reference to the interests of the workman. The subject is treated constructively and is approached with a scrupulous spirit of fairness and sympathy with the good intentions of those who are striving to better the workman's lot. The particular aim, however, is to demonstrate that in Christian principles may be found a remedy for present day social evils, and that not merely is Socialism not the only remedy but that it is no remedy at all.

No Fixed Charges Made.

There is no fixed charges for those who spend their three days in this retreat on Staten Island, although it is customary for retreatants to make an offering of $5 for their board and room and other expenses during that time. This sum, of course, does not come anywhere near the actual cost of the material services rendered, but many of the rich men who have visited the retreat have been so generous in their contributions that the work has been carried on without much financial worry. Now and then Father Shealy says he finds a check for $1,000 or more in one of the envelopes of a Monday morning after the retreatants have gone back to their workaday world. No one, however, is excluded because he can make no offering at all in recompense. All that is necessary is simply to arrange privately with the director, who wishes it most clearly understood that the man with no money is as welcome at the retreat as the man who can contribute largely to its support.

In Beautiful Spot.

The House of Retreats is on Fingerboard road, at Fort Wadsworth. The grounds form part of what was known as Fox Hills, a beautiful undulating slope in the most accessible part of the island. The original owner of the property had a keen sense of its artistic worth. He was a man of great wealth, and is said to have spent a total of $800,000 in building the great mansion and on the improvement of the 20 acres or grounds about it during the many years that he lived there. Walks of granite meander through upland and lowland and lead to unexpected views of the sea and of the rolling country inland. There are tennis courts and groves, conservatories and grape arbors. For some years after the owner's death the place was used as a summer boarding house and fell more or less into disrepair. The grounds were lapsing back into their natural state when the property passed into the hands of the Laymen's league and the retreat was established there. Since then the place has been restored to most of its original beauty. There is nothing like it on Staten Island and few estates near New York that can compare with it. The house is imposing with its great staircases, its wonderful carved panels and its huge fireplaces.

The place was renamed "Mount Marcellus" in honor of the Spanish town of Marcellus, where St. Ignatius of Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit order, wrote his famous spiritual exercises. It was this book that introduced the retreat plan of campaign into the war for the conquest of souls.—New York Press.

CAKES PRODUCED BY ARTISTS

Many of Those Made for English Weddings Will Weigh as Much as Twenty-five Pounds.

Although the wedding cake of England has not fairly like bliss about it, it will hold its own with any cake in the world. With its snow-white ornaments of the purest sugar, it presents a very beautiful appearance when complete, but it is not generally known that it takes over two years before the cake itself, minus the almond and sugar icing, is fully matured.

According to a wedding cake expert, it is the custom of the moment at society weddings to ornament the cakes with an eye for lightness, and for this purpose the tiers are placed on Corinthian pillars, between which are small doves on shells. Festoons or closely clustered ivy leaves ornament the base and the structure, which often runs up to 24 inches, is surmounted with sugar flowers and leaves.

Some of the cakes weigh as much as 25 pounds, and the price goes up to $300 or so, although the modern wedding cake can be purchased at as low as $250. In military weddings the decoration often runs on lines suitable to the regiment, and for navy ceremonies small dreadnoughts and anchors in sugar are the chosen adornment. If the family has a crest and motto it is worked into the scheme.

The latest fashions in wedding favors include crackers which are filled with wedding mottos for distribution among the guests. These crackers are larger than the Christmas varieties, and they are tied with flowing white satin ribbons. Bags in fancy paper filled with rose leaves for strewing along the bride's path are an innovation which are favored this season, and in place of the rice and confetti which used to be thrown at the bride and bridegroom there are quaint little shoes, cups, horseshoes and wedding bells carried out in silver.—London Graphic.

ment. Stoppel is in the pen and has turned state's evidence. Townsend was sentenced to three years in the pen Saturday. Lott went on trial Monday, and Brewer and Turner are yet to be tried.

The dictagraph was used in gathering evidence, conversations being recorded between Ed Fry, a contractor, and Lott, Stoppel, Townsend and Turner, which resulted in the indictment of the last four men.

Bliss also reported that State Highway Commissioner James R. Marker, formerly surveyor of Darke county, had drawn illegally a total of $163.93 of the county's funds.

The examination was made by the state upon petition of a score of taxpayers of Darke county. The alleged looting was done through padded bills for bridge repair, concrete and road work, the examiners say, and fictitious bills were presented and collected for work never performed.

An interesting side light is the fact that the basement of the courthouse was used as a saloon in local option time, and the "swag," according to one affidavit, seems to have been divided there.

Prosecutor Maher, in a telegram received here, declares the charge against him had been fixed up by traitors.

A PLACE OF SILENCE FOR SEARCHING THE SOUL

THE RETREAT

EVERY Friday afternoon there are some two score men aboard the five o'clock boat for Staten Island, bound on an unusual undertaking. They are men of many different stations and walks of life. All are strangers to each other, and they do not meet until the end of their journey. They are going away for sixty-two hours of spiritual stock taking. Each is desirous of learning just what he is making and what he can make out of his life; what moral opportunities he is neglecting entirely or developing too little. To do this they are going to a place of peace and quiet, the House of Retreats at Mount Marcellus, Fort Wadsworth, which was dedicated last June, and is the only retreat for laymen in America. The house is on the crest of the hill at the gate of New York and commands a wide view of sea and city.

Each weekend sees a different company. Except under unusual circumstances no man is permitted to enter the retreat more than once a year. Yet so deep is the impression that is made on the individual conscience that it is rare for a man to feel the need of a more frequent looking over spiritually. Except for fifteen minutes after the evening meal, when the ban is lifted, these men spend the time between six o'clock Friday afternoon and eight o'clock Monday morning without exchanging a word with each other. The rest of the time they battle silently with their difficulties, under the generalship of one skillful in such work, though obedient to the tactics of one greater than he, a famous fighter and a memorable commander, Ignatius Loyola.

Men of Varied Occupation. Here are some of the occupations of the two score men who gathered at Mount Marcellus last week to meditate upon the condition of their souls: An ex-clergyman, a metal polisher, a fire chief, a plumber, a Wall street magnate, a postman, three newspaper men, a driver for a grocer's wagon, a book publisher, a department store clerk, a doctor, several merchants and several lawyers. All these men retired voluntarily from the world for a brief space in order to find out, during a week-end of prayer, of meditation and silence, how to confront it more manfully. It was no ordinary sermon that they heard now and again from the spiritual director. There are no heads nodding sleepily while he talks. Every one listens with strained attention. As one man said: "You seem to feel the thumbs of God at work on the clay of your soul."

Although retreats have been part of the church's work for centuries, it was only in 1882 that a definite plan was adopted so their benefits could be made available for laymen. In that year Father Henry of the Jesuit order established in Belgium the first House of Retreats for laymen. The movement spread to Spain, France, Portugal and South America. The second House of Retreats in England was opened last April, about eight miles from the center of London. The first retreat for laymen was established in America about three years ago at Fordham. Later, during the summer, it was at Kayser's island, on the sound. The latter part of last year the Mount Marcellus property on Staten Island was secured, and was opened September 8, 1911. It was dedicated as a permanent House of Retreats June 14, of this year.

No Doctrinal Instruction. A retreat is not made up of preaching or doctrinal instruction. At Mount Marcellus Father Terence J. Shealy, who is in charge of the movement, gives frequent talks upon the various phases of the spiritual life. They are not doctrinal expositions, for any one who believes in the fundamentals of Christianity is welcomed. They apply largely to business ethics, the standard of honesty and justice being applied to every phase of daily work. They are careful exhortations that tend to make a man recast his soul, to arouse his conscience, to make him look within himself and realize what he is doing with his life. Each of these is followed by a period of meditation. The men may retire to their rooms or they may wander about the grounds—there are twenty acres of giant trees and shady lawns—or they may sit in the library where there are many volumes waiting to help them still further along the road they have set out to travel.

The day begins early for those in this retreat. They rise at six o'clock. Meditation and a brief religious service precede breakfast, which is followed by meditation and reflection in common at nine a. m. At eleven the spiritual director gives one of his searching talks, then follows—in silence always—an examination of the conscience. After the midday meal there is another address from Father Shealy and another period of meditation. Only for the quarter of an hour after supper is any general conversation allowed.

Audit Books of Life. "We apply our conscience to the common duties of the day," says Father Shealy—a fine, stalwart, earnest, sensitive, humorous man, an Irishman of the best type. "In the light of the law of conscience we examine our lives, our social relationships, our business dealings. We audit our books. We realize our obligations anew. As we can see our faces in the mirror our meditations and the spiritual exercises enable us to look into our souls. We study the science of right living.

"The rule of silence gives play to a new and tremendous activity of mind and heart busied with the basic relations of human life. The appeal is to the whole man, and its object is to give special strength as well as light for the upbuilding of the character. It is, in fact, the awakening of the mind to new meanings in human relationship; the making of a new beginning in the soul's journey to God under the stimulus of sympathetic direction.

"Conscience is becoming more and more divorced from professional and business responsibility. But life and the things of life are a trust of which each man must one day render an account of his stewardship."

Combat Social Unrest. The primary purpose of the retreat is, of course, to mend and strengthen souls; but there is still another side upon which the spiritual director's exhortations touch with emphasis. The growth of social unrest and anti-religious social theories in the United States has been a source of much apprehension to the clergy. Socialism is growing rapidly, and the church is combating positively and actively the features of the Socialistic propaganda that are directed against doctrinal and moral teachings. As a result, part of the work of the Laymen's League for Retreats and Social Studies, under whose auspices the retreat at Mount Marcellus is conducted, has established regular courses of systematic study of social questions and social agencies. These are particularly a part of the School of Social Studies, at 100 Nassau street, New York, but the same questions are touched upon impressively during the retreats at each week end.

The subject of Socialism is dealt with exhaustively from the Catholic viewpoint and with especial reference to the interests of the workingman. The subject is treated constructively and is approached with a scrupulous spirit of fairness and sympathy with the good intentions of those who are striving to better the workingman's lot. The particular aim, however, is to demonstrate that in Christian principles may be found a remedy for present day social evils, and that not merely is Socialism not the only remedy but that it is no remedy at all.

No Fixed Charges Made. There is no fixed charges for those who spend their three days in this retreat on Staten Island, although it is customary for retreatants to make an offering of $5 for their board and room and other expenses during that time. This sum, of course, does not come anywhere near the actual cost of the material services rendered, but many of the rich men who have visited the retreat have been so generous in their contributions that the work has been carried on without much financial worry. Now and then Father Shealy says he finds a check for $1,000 or more in one of the envelopes of a Monday morning after the retreatants have gone back to their workaday world. No one, however, is excluded because he can make no offering at all in recompense. All that is necessary is simply to arrange privately with the director, who wishes it most clearly understood that the man with no money is as welcome at the retreat as the man who can contribute largely to its support.

In Beautiful Spot. The House of Retreats is on Finger-board road, at Fort Wadsworth. The grounds form part of what was known as Fox Hills, a beautiful undulating slope in the most accessible part of the island. The original owner of the property had a keen sense of its artistic worth. He was a man of great wealth, and is said to have spent a total of $800,000 in building the great mansion and on the improvement of the 20 acres or grounds about it during the many years that he lived there. Walks of granite meander through upland and lowland and lead to unexpected views of the sea and of the rolling country inland. There are tennis courts and grottoes, conservatories and grape arbors. For some years after the owner's death the place was used as a summer boarding house and fell more or less into disrepair. The grounds were lapsing back into their natural state when the property passed into the hands of the Laymen's league and the retreat was established there. Since then the place has been restored to most of its original beauty. There is nothing like it on Staten Island and few estates near New York that can compare with it. The house is imposing with its great staircases, its wonderful carved panels and its huge fireplaces.

The place was renamed "Mount Marcellus" in honor of the Spanish town of Marcellus, where St. Ignatius of Loyola, the founder of the Jesuit order, wrote his famous spiritual exercises. It was this book that introduced the retreat plan of campaign into the war for the conquest of souls.—New York Press.

CAKES PRODUCED BY ARTISTS

Many of Those Made for English Weddings Will Weigh as Much as Twenty-five Pounds.

Although the wedding cake of England has not fairlylike bliss about it, it will hold its own with any cake in the world. With its snow-white ornaments of the purest sugar, it presents a very beautiful appearance when complete, but it is not generally known that it takes over two years before the cake itself, minus the almond and sugar icing, is fully matured.

According to a wedding cake expert, it is the custom of the moment at society weddings to ornament the cakes with an eye for lightness, and for this purpose the tiers are placed on Corinthian pillars, between which are small doves on shells. Festoons or closely clustered ivy leaves ornament the base and the structure, which often runs up to 84 inches, is surmounted with sugar flowers and leaves.

Some of the cakes weigh as much as 25 pounds, and the price goes up to $300 or so, although the modern wedding cake can be purchased at as low as $250. In military weddings the decoration often runs on lines suitable to the regiment, and for navy ceremonies small dreadnoughts and anchors in sugar are the chosen adornment. If the family has a crest and motto it is worked into the scheme.

The latest fashions in wedding favors include crackers which are filled with wedding mottoes for distribution among the guests. These crackers are larger than the Christmas varieties, and they are tied with flowing white satin ribbons. Bags in fancy paper filled with rose leaves for strewing along the bride's path are an innovation which are favored this season, and in place of the rice and confetti which used to be thrown at the bride and bridegroom there are quaint little shoes, caps, horseshoes and wedding bells carried out in silver.—London Graphic.

ment. Stoppel is in the pen and has turned state's evidence. Townsend was sentenced to three years in the pen Saturday. Lott went on trial Monday, and Brewer and Turner are yet to be tried.

The dictagraph was used in gathering evidence, conversations being recorded between Ed Fry, a contractor, and Lott, Stoppel, Townsend and Turner, which resulted in the indictment of the last four men.

Bills also reported that State Highway Commissioner James R. Marker, formerly surveyor of Darke county, had drawn illegally a total of $163.93 of the county's funds.

The examination was made by the state upon petition of a score of taxpayers of Darke county. The alleged looting was done through padded bills for bridge repair, concrete and road work, the examiners say, and fictitious bills were presented and collected for work never performed.

An interesting side light is the fact that the basement of the courthouse was used as a saloon in local option time, and the "swag," according to one affidavit, seems to have been divided there.

RESTS AT HOME AFTER LONG RIDE

Colonel Roosevelt Arrives This Morning at Oyster Bay.

SHOWS NO ILL-EFFECTS OF TRIP

Bullet Definitely Located by Doctor Lambert, the Family Physician, Who Probed the Tender Wound—Patient to Speak Half an Hour in Madison Square Garden, New York, Next Week.

New York, Oct. 22.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is resting comfortably today at his home on Sagamore Hill, after his long ride from Chicago. The train from the west reached New York shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, and from the station here the Roosevelt special car was taken directly to Oyster Bay, where it arrived about 9 a. m. The long ride had no ill effect on the distinguished patient, who appeared to be in good spirits.

No demonstration was permitted when Colonel Roosevelt arrived in this city this morning. State Chairman Hotchkiss and Senator Dixon did not try to see the colonel, and will wait until he is comfortably settled at Sagamore Hill.

Throughout the trip the colonel wished more than once to greet the numerous but silent crowds that awaited him along the route. Instead of the noisy receptions that marked his trip west, there was a subdued murmur of sympathy when the train rolled into the stations, and the colonel, who formerly had never missed an opportunity of addressing the crowds, shut off his disappointment by passing most of the time in sleep.

At Oyster Bay today, Dr. Lambert said the colonel would be allowed to speak for half an hour at Madison Square Garden Oct. 30.

"If you allow him to speak for half an hour he will keep on," some one suggested. "That's all right about that," said Dr. Lambert. "I will be there and I'll ring the bell on him."

SAVED BY HIS WIFE.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Braintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Dr. King's New Discovery," writes Mr. F. "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends all thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds, it's the most safe and reliable medicine for many throat and lung troubles—grip, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed by Blackmer & Tanquary. Advt.

Harmon Issues Proclamation

People of Ohio Are Urged to Observe Tuberculosis Day.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.—Governor Judson Harmon, urging the observance of Tuberculosis Day in Ohio on the 27th day of October, has issued the following proclamation:

"The terrible ravages of tuberculosis in the United States, destroying, as it does, two hundred thousand persons each year, has led to organized fight in this country looking toward its extinction. Scientific research has disclosed its prevention, and, under favorable conditions, the cure. Societies have been formed over the world to combat this plague, rightly called the greatest of all the ills which destroy human life.

"This should be followed by general information on the part of our people as to its cause and methods by which its fearful work may be conquered. In this way alone can this monster which every year consumes thousands of lives, millions of money, untold physical suffering and misery, be finally stamped out.

"To the end that Ohio may earnestly engage in this most laudable effort, all philanthropic organizations and all individuals are requested to observe Sunday, October 27th, 1912, designated as Tuberculosis Day, in spreading every form of information as to the character, prevention and cure of tuberculosis."

Stenog Climbs Stand

Government Attempts to Show Money Was Paid For Dynamiting.

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—The government made progress in the dynamiting cases when it introduced records of the iron workers to show that the money paid for dynamiting, evidenced by checks to Hockin an others, was not included in reports made to members of the organization in the financial statements. The witness was Miss Mary Dye, the stenographer. She identified a check for $200 signed by J. J. McNamara and Frank M. Ryan and payable to T. C. Webb, a former member of the executive board and now under indictment. This check was dated June 3, 1908. With the union books before her Miss Dye testified that several checks were entered in the expense account record as "advances" to Webb. Dynamitings at about the time the checks in question were issued occurred in the east.

THAT ABODE OF THE PAST

"Yes, suh—here we are at that old time place!" And our dark driver drew up his little victoria gently, writes John Galsworthy in Scribner's. Through the open doorway, into a dim cavern of ruined house, we passed. The mildew and dirt, the dark, denuded darkness of that old hostel, rotting down with damp and time!

And our guide, the tall, thin, gray haired dame, who came forward with such native ease, and moved before us, touching this fungused wall, that rusting stairway and telling, as it were, no one, in her soft, slow speech, things that any one could see—what a strange and fitting figure.

Before the smell of the deserted, cooling rooms, before that old creature leading us on and on, negligent of all our questions and talking to the air, as though we were not, we felt such discomfort that we soon made to go out again into such freshness as there was on that day of dismal heat. Then realizing, it seemed, that she was losing us, our guide turned; for the first time looking in our faces, she smiled, and said in her sweet, weak voice, like the sound from the strings of a spinnet long unplayed on: "Don't you wahn'd to see the dome room, an' all the other rooms right here, of this old place?"

Again those words! We had not the hearts to disappoint her. And as we followed on and on, along the moldering corridors and rooms where the black peeling papers hung like stalactites, the dominance of our senses gradually dropped from us, and with our souls we saw its soul—the soul of this old time place; this mustering house of the old south, bereft of all but ghosts, and the gray pigeons niched in the rotting gallery round a narrow courtyard open to the sky.

"This is the dome room, suh and lady; right over the slave market it is. Here they did the business of the state—sure; see their face up there in the roof—Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson, Davis, Lee—there they are! All gone—now! Yes, suh!"

Pitcher Cullop, the Appalachian league recruit, got away to a good start with New Orleans and appears to be all that he was said to be.

NORWAY LOG CABINS

Picturesque Abodes Are Being Done Away With.

Modern Clapboard Buildings Taking Their Place—Typical Examples of Old Style Buildings Are to Be Preserved.

Christiania, Norway.—No one knows when the first log cabin was built in Norway, but it must have been about 1,500 years at least. At first they were windowless, chimneyless things then they gradually became light and airy, acquired chimneys and floors and developed into one and one-half and then into two story houses, becoming the homelike abodes of enlightened people. Their development and transformation are easy to understand, thanks to the efforts of Dr. Sandvig of Lillehammer, Norway.

Born in the country, he had from his boyhood a passion for the old homes of peasants, and even as a child it pained him to see them set aside or torn down to make way for the nondescript buildings of clapboards which appeared in their stead. It became his ambition to collect before it was too late the most typical examples of the different log cabins.

In these old houses is wonderful furniture belonging to the period represented and always arranged according to ancient traditions. For instance, there are examples of old Norwegian beds, which are appalling contrivances. Rarely are they more than four or five feet long and often almost as wide. It seems that in the fourteenth, fifteenth and even sixteenth centuries people in Norway did not lie down in their beds—they sat in them. A person was propped up, so to speak, by four or five feather beds and as many more pillows under his head.

Those who have traveled in Norway, if they have been out of the beaten track and have walked across barren mountain tops or through pungent pine forests, will remember coming some evening when the sun was still high to a little log chalet looking strangely picturesque from the outside.

And they will remember when the door was opened how they entered a large room where the white wooden floor was strewn with sprigs of fresh juniper and where an armful of green birch filled the fireplace ready to burst into a pungent flame when a match was set to it.

In Norway these houses are made of heavy pine logs. The bark is carefully taken off and then the logs are hewed square and of the same size from one end to another. It takes some experience to notch them at the ends so that they fit exactly. The logs are usually either stained or oiled and their rich yellowish or brownish color is in harmony with almost any surroundings.

The old-fashioned Norway log cabin had a sod roof. It is hard to express the poetry those words should convey except to those who have seen the sod roofed cabin. "I have come across roofs that were a riot of wild pansies," says a writer in the Craftsman, "and I have seen wonderful roofs where wild rose bushes hung over the eaves or a daisy roof the effect of whose white, starlike flowers topping the dark brown structure was exquisitely picturesque.

"Some roofs produce only pasture grass, and the story runs in Norwegian folk lore that a lazy man led the cow on the roof—the cabin was built against a hill—instead of taking her to pasture. I have no doubt that the story is true, for I have often seen a couple of white kidlets gamboling on the soft green housetops, while the mother goat, grave and ruminate, was tethered to the chimney."

Mrs. Sage Saves Birds.

New York.—Mrs. Russell Sage has purchased Marsh Island, on the gulf coast southwest of New Orleans, and has dedicated it as a guarded refuge for the migratory birds of America. At a cost of $150,000 she has taken control of the most popular haunt of the southern market gunner and has given protection to the game birds that flock there in millions every winter. The island is about eighteen miles long and nine miles wide.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

N. C. R. Men Want Trial in Dayton.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 22.—The first move of defense made by President John H. Patterson and 29 other defendants of the National Cash Register company, indicted for alleged violation of the criminal section of the Sherman anti-trust law, was made in the United States district court here. A request was made that the trial take place in Dayton instead of this city. The court took the matter under advisement.

Bryan's Final Speech in Ohio.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—William J. Bryan brought to a close a two days' tour of Ohio, addressing a crowd that filled the spacious Central armory to its doors and overflowed upon the sidewalks outside. He spoke more than three hours, devoting himself to ridiculing the past performances and future promises of President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt, and concluding with an analysis of the position and policies of Governor Wilson.

STS AT HOME AFTER LONG RIDE

Colonel Roosevelt Arrives This Morning at Oyster Bay.

SHOWS NO ILL-EFFECTS OF TRIP

Bullet Definitely Located by Doctor Lambert, the Family Physician, Who Probed the Tender Wound—Patient to Speak Half an Hour in Madison Square Garden, New York, Next Week.

New York, Oct. 22.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is resting comfortably today at his home on Sagamore Hill, after his long ride from Chicago. The train from the west reached New York shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, and from the station here the Roosevelt special car was taken directly to Oyster Bay, where it arrived about 9 a. m. The long ride had no effect on the distinguished patient, who appeared to be in good spirits. No demonstration was permitted when Colonel Roosevelt arrived in this city this morning. State Chairman Hotchkiss and Senator Dixon did not try to see the colonel, and will wait until he is comfortably settled at Sagamore Hill.

Throughout the trip the colonel wished more than once to greet the numerous but silent crowds that awaited him along the route. Instead of the noisy receptions that marked his trip west, there was a subdued murmur of sympathy when the train rolled into the stations, and the colonel, who formerly had never missed an opportunity of addressing the crowds, shut off his disappointment by passing most of the time in sleep. At Oyster Bay today, Dr. Lambert said the colonel would be allowed to speak for half an hour at Madison Square Garden Oct. 30.

"If you allow him to speak for half an hour he will keep on," some one suggested. "That's all right about that," said Dr. Lambert. "I will be there and I'll ring the bell on him."

The bullet has been definitely located. It lies between the third and fourth ribs, on the right side, and is embedded in the major pectoral muscle, half an inch above the fourth rib. Assured of its position by the last x-ray picture, Dr. Lambert inserted his finger in the wound and touched the missile.

"It's a little tender there," said Roosevelt, and expressed satisfaction when told the doctors knew where the bullet had lodged.

"The lead will not be extracted now," said Lambert, "but later on it will be up to the colonel whether he wants to carry it in his chest or his vest pocket."

SAVED BY HIS WIFE.

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Braintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Dr. King's New Discovery," writes Mr. F. "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends all thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds, it's the most safe and reliable medicine for grip, throat and lung troubles—grip, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 50 cts. and $1.00. Guaranteed by Blackmer & Tanquary, Advt.

Harmon Issues Proclamation

People of Ohio Are Urged to Observe Tuberculosis Day.

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.—Governor Judson Harmon, urging the observance of Tuberculosis Day in Ohio on the 27th day of October, has issued the following proclamation:

"The terrible ravages of tuberculosis in the United States, destroying, as it does, two hundred thousand persons each year, has led to organized fight in this country looking toward its extinction. Scientific research has disclosed its prevention, and, under favorable conditions, the cure. Societies have been formed over the world to combat this plague, rightly called the greatest of all the ills which destroy human life.

"This should be followed by general information on the part of our people as to its cause and methods by which its fearful work may be conquered. In this way alone can this monster, which every year consumes thousands of lives, millions of money, untold physical suffering and misery, be finally stamped out.

"To the end that Ohio may earnestly engage in this most laudable effort, all philanthropic organizations and all individuals are requested to observe Sunday, October 27th, 1912, designated as Tuberculosis Day, in spreading every form of information as to the character, prevention and cure of tuberculosis."

Stenog Climbs Stand

Government Attempts to Show Money Was Paid For Dynamiting.

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—The government made progress in the dynamiting cases when it introduced records of the iron workers to show that the money paid for dynamiting, evidenced by checks to Hookin an others, was not included in reports made to members of the organization in the financial statements. The witness was Miss Mary Dye, the stenographer. She identified a check for $200 signed by J. J. McNamara and Frank M. Ryan and payable to T. C. Webb, a former member of the executive board and now under indictment. This check was dated June 3, 1908. With the union books before her Miss Dye testified that several checks were entered in the expense account record as "advances" to Webb. Dynamiting at about the time the checks in question were issued occurred in the east.

"Yes, suh—here we are at that old time place!" And our dark driver drew up his little victoria gently, writes John Galsworthy in Scribner's.

Through the open doorway, into a dim cavern of ruined house, we passed. The mildew and dirt, the dark, denuded darkness of that old hostel, rotting down with damp and time!

And our guide, the tall, thin, gray haired dame, who came forward with such native ease, and moved before us, touching this fungused wall, that rusting stairway and telling, as it were, no one, in her soft, slow speech, things that any one could see—what a strange and fitting figure.

Before the smell of the deserted, oozing rooms, before that old creature leading us on and on, negligent of all our questions and talking to the air, as though we were not, we felt such discomfort that we soon made to go out again into such freshness as there was on that day of dismal heat. Then realizing, it seemed, that she was losing us, our guide turned; for the first time looking in our faces, she smiled, and said in her sweet, weak voice, like the sound from the strings of a spinnet long unplayed on: "Don't you want to see the dome room, an' all the other rooms right here, of this old place?"

Again those words! We had not the hearts to disappoint her. And as we followed on and on, along the mouldering corridors and rooms where the black peeling papers hung like atalactites, the dominance of our senses gradually dropped from us, and with our souls we saw its soul—the soul of this old time place; this mustering house of the old south, bereft of all but ghosts, and the gray pigeons plucked in the rotting gallery round a narrow courtyard open to the sky.

"This is the dome room, suh and lady; right over the slave market it is. Here they did the business of the state—sure; see their face up there in the roof—Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson, Davis, Lee—there they are! All gone—now! Yes, suh!"

Pitcher Cullop, the Appalachian league recruit, got away to a good start with New Orleans and appears to be all that he was said to be.

NORWAY LOG CABINS

Picturesque Abodes Are Being Done Away With.

Modern Clapboard Buildings Taking Their Place—Typical Examples of Old Style Buildings Are to Be Preserved.

Christiania, Norway.—No one knows when the first log cabin was built in Norway, but it must have been about 1,500 years at least. At first they were windowless, chimneyless things then they gradually became light and airy, acquired chimneys and floors and developed into one and one-half and then into two story houses, becoming the homelike abodes of enlightened people. Their development and transformation are easy to understand, thanks to the efforts of Dr. Sandvig of Lillehammer, Norway.

Born in the country, he had from his boyhood a passion for the old homes of peasants, and even as a child it pained him to see them set aside or torn down to make way for the nondescript buildings of clapboards which appeared in their stead. It became his ambition to collect before it was too late the most typical examples of the different log cabins.

In these old houses is wonderful furniture belonging to the period represented and always arranged according to ancient traditions. For instance, there are examples of old Norwegian beds, which are appalling contrivances. Rarely are they more than four or five feet long and often almost as wide. It seems that in the fourteenth, fifteenth and even sixteenth centuries people in Norway did not lie down in their beds—they sat in them. A person was propped up, so to speak, by four or five feather beds and as many more pillows under his head.

Those who have traveled in Norway, if they have been out of the beaten track and have walked across barren mountain tops or through pungent pine forests, will remember coming some evening when the sun was still high to a little log chalet looking strangely picturesque from the outside.

And they will remember when the door was opened how they entered a large room where the white wooden floor was strewn with sprigs of fresh juniper and where an armful of green birch filled the fireplace ready to burst into a pungent flame when a match was set to it.

In Norway these houses are made of heavy pine logs. The bark is carefully taken off and then the logs are hewed square and of the same size from one end to another. It takes some experience to notch them at the ends so that they fit exactly. The logs are usually either stained or oiled and their rich yellowish or brownish color is in harmony with almost any surroundings.

The old-fashioned Norway log cabin had a sod roof. It is hard to express the poetry those words should convey except to those who have seen the sod roofed cabin. "I have come across roofs that were a riot of wild pansies," says a writer in the Craftsman, "and I have seen wonderful roofs where wild rose bushes hung over the eaves or a daisy roof the effect of whose white, starlike flowers topped the dark brown structure was exquisitely picturesque."

"Some roofs produce only pasture grass, and the story runs in Norwegian folk lore that a lazy man led the cow on the roof—the cabin was built against a hill—instead of taking her to pasture. I have no doubt that the story is true, for I have often seen a couple of white kids gamboling on the soft green housetops, while the mother goat, grave and ruminate, was tethered to the chimney."

Mrs. Sage Saves Birds.

New York.—Mrs. Russell Sage has purchased Marsh Island, on the gulf coast southwest of New Orleans, and has dedicated it as a guarded refuge for the migratory birds of America. At a cost of $150,000 she has taken control of the most popular haunt of the southern market gunner and has given protection to the game birds that flock there in millions every winter. The island is about eighteen miles long and nine miles wide.

INTEREST INCREASED ON THE COUNTY FUNDS

The county funds were let at competitive bidding Monday, and the Midland National bank was awarded the funds for the next three years, at 3.66 per cent. for the inactive funds and 3.26 per cent for the active funds.

The other bid was that of the Washington Savings Bank and Trust company which bid 2.80 per cent for the inactive and 1.80 for the active funds of the county.

The bid of the Midland National bank is a decided increase over the previous rate of interest for the county funds, which was 2 per cent on the daily balance, which during the last fiscal year amounted to $1,385.36.

The increase over last year will bring the total up to some $800 or $900 more, it is claimed, so that in the three years the total amount of increased interest the county will receive is estimated at above $2500.

Mont Phillips, charged with shooting with intent to kill Josie Hargrave on Sunday, October 13th, was arraigned before Mayor Smith Monday afternoon, and upon his plea of not guilty, he was bound over to the January Grand jury under $1000 bond.

Not being able to give the bond he was remanded back to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Wants Hilarious Youngsters Fined

R. C. Tefft appeared before Mayor Smith Tuesday morning and displayed a badly damaged violin and mail box which he stated had been ruined by a crowd of boys who gathered to "hell" his step-son, Jesse Hubbard and wife Monday night.

It seems that when the crowd arrived that Mr. Tefft informed them that Hubbard and his wife were not about, which was correct, and that the boys later entered the premises and did some mischief in which the violin was smashed and the mail box also broken.

He gave the names of some 20 or 25 boys whom he alleges were present, and asked for action against the ring-leaders.

Many Witness Splendid Drill

The ladies of the Odd Fellows, together with other friends, witnessed the superb drill of Imperial Degree Staff at Memorial hall Monday night, and all were highly pleased with the splendid floor work of the famous team.

FREIGHT TROUBLES CAUSE MUCH DELAY

B. & O. freight trains have been having their share of trouble which commenced Monday about 10 o'clock when a set of trucks left the rails at the tower in Sabina, where the Pennsylvania crosses the B. & O.

In giving hand signals while the tower was out of commission, one of the big freight engines ran over a derailer and took the ditch, delaying traffic for some time.

About the same time local freight No. 63 left the rails at Grove City, and six cars were scattered along the track, requiring the presence of the wreck train and causing further delay of traffic.

Tuesday morning a draw-bar pulled out in a freight while in this city, and No. 105 was delayed 40 minutes. Outside of the above mishaps everything moved along very nicely.

Pennsy Train Takes a Rest

MARK TWAIN'S DEFINITION OF A LIE

"There are three kinds of Lies," explained the author of Huckleberry Finn. "There are lies, darned lies, and Advertisements."

When Mark used to live in Hannibal, Mo., 'way back ages ago, perhaps the Clothingologists of the town "shot it pretty strong" in their ads.

But the day is passed when Advertisements are mis-statements.

The Business Man who would knowingly make mis-statements in type would also go into your pockets when your head was turned.

Take every ad you read as 100% truthful, but—

Go behind the written announcement and see if your opinion of the goods is the same as Mr. Ad-writer's.

There may be a difference there.

INTEREST INCREASED ON THE COUNTY FUNDS

The county funds were let at competitive bidding Monday, and the Midland National bank was awarded the funds for the next three years, at 3.66 per cent. for the inactive funds and 3.26 per cent. for the active funds.

The other bid was that of the Washington Savings Bank and Trust company which bid 2.80 per cent. for the inactive and 1.80 for the active funds of the county.

The bid of the Midland National bank is a decided increase over the previous rate of interest for the county funds, which was 2 per cent. on the daily balance, which during the last fiscal year amounted to $1,385.36.

The increase over last year will bring the total up to some $800 or $900 more, it is claimed, so that in the three years the total amount of increased interest the county will receive is estimated at above $2500.

Mont Phillips, charged with shooting with intent to kill Josie Hargrave on Sunday, October 13th, was arraigned before Mayor Smith Monday afternoon, and upon his plea of not guilty, he was bound over to the January Grand jury under $1000 bond.

Not being able to give the bond he was remanded back to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Wants Hilarious Youngsters Fined

R. C. Tefft appeared before Mayor Smith Tuesday morning and displayed a badly damaged violin and mail box which he stated had been ruined by a crowd of boys who gathered to "bell" his step-son, Jesse Hubbard and wife Monday night.

It seems that when the crowd arrived that Mr. Tefft informed them that Hubbard and his wife were not about, which was correct, and that the boys later entered the premises and did some mischief in which the violin was smashed and the mail box also broken.

He gave the names of some 20 or 25 boys whom he alleges were present, and asked for action against the ring-leaders.

Many Witness Splendid Drill

The ladies of the Odd Fellows, together with other friends, witnessed the superb drill of Imperial Degree Staff at Memorial hall Monday night, and all were highly pleased with the splendid floor work of the famous team.

The staff drew forth rounds of applause, and the drill was superior to any ever witnessed by the guests. All of the members of the big staff did their best, and justly merited the unstinted praise given them.

FREIGHT TROUBLES CAUSE MUCH DELAY

B. & O. freight trains have been having their share of trouble which commenced Monday about 10 o'clock when a set of trucks left the rails at the tower in Sabina, where the Pennsylvania crosses the B. & O.

In giving hand signals while the tower was out of commission, one of the big freight engines ran over a derailer and took the ditch, delaying traffic for some time.

About the same time local freight No. 63 left the rails at Grove City, and six cars were scattered along the track, requiring the presence of the wreck train and causing further delay of traffic.

Tuesday morning a draw-bar pulled out in a freight while in this city, and No. 105 was delayed 40 minutes. Outside of the above mishaps everything moved along very nicely.

Pennsy Train Takes a Rest

Pennsylvania train No. 34, due here at 5:58 p. m., was tied up at this point for two hours Saturday evening, the result of a leaking flue in the engine.

It was necessary for another engine to take the train on its journey.

Football Boy Loses Diamond

Arthur Rankin, a member of the Springfield football team, lost a valuable diamond ring either in this city or on the train while homeward bound Saturday afternoon.
